

FATAL CAR . . . Curves around tree.

Two Lincolmites Killed In Crash

By JIM WOODSON
Star Staff Writer

Two Lincoln youths were killed and a third injured early Sunday when their car crashed head-on through a telephone pole and into a tree in front of 1205 So. 10th.

The dead: Charles Thomas Cole Jr., 21, of 927 So. 11th. Edward D. Putty, 17, of 720 So. 16th.

A lone survivor in the pre-dawn tragedy, 17-year-old Robert L. Smith of 1124 F. was in good condition Sunday night at St. Elizabeth Hospital, suffering cuts on the right cheek and nose and bruises and abrasions over his body.

Wreckage Spotted
The wreckage of the car, half-hidden by a cloud of steam rising from the engine, was first spotted by police officers Larry Kellison and Harold Thompson while making their rounds shortly before 4 a.m.

An ambulance dispatched to the scene, rushed Putty, the driver, and Smith, a passenger in the rear seat of the auto, to the hospital. Cole, riding in the right front seat, was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy County Attorney Ron Lahners.

Investigating officer Darold Moog said the Putty car jumped the west curb of 10th just north of the alley between B and C.

Pole Sheared
He said the car sheared off a telephone pole, started to skid sideways, then straightened out, rocketing between an evergreen tree and a "No Parking" sign and head-on into a tree.

Police had already begun to search for Cole after receiving a call less than 30 minutes before the accident from a woman in the 2700 block of South 10th.

The woman told officers Cole had attempted to gain entrance to her home through a bedroom window.

Officer Moog said Smith told him he and Putty had been sleeping in the car, parked near the 2700 block of So. 10th, waiting for Cole.

According to Moog, Smith said Cole returned to the car in a hurry and said, "Get going, the cops are gonna be after me."

Accelerated
Smith told the officer that near 10th and Peach, 7 blocks from the accident scene, Cole said they better "ditch the cops" and Putty accelerated, northbound on 10th.

Moog said Smith told him it was then that he and Cole noticed Putty had dozed off and they both tried to grab the steering wheel.

Smith estimated the car's speed then at 65 miles per hour and told Moog that when he saw they were going into the telephone pole he dove for the floor of the rear seat and that was all he remembered.

The two deaths brought Lincoln's traffic toll for the year to 10, compared with 8 on Dec. 2, 1961. In Lancaster County, they raised the toll to 35, compared with 16 at this time one year ago.

Red China Pulling Out

-TOO SPIRITED-

Giving Santa Fired

London (P) — One of the most eligible men for the part has had to give up the role of Santa Claus in a British store — because he was too kindhearted.

Of all the gentlemen in red coats and white beards, none was so full of the spirit of Christmas as 82-year-old Wally Bates.

Day by day Wally sat in a corner of the cooperative store at Nottingham and spoke in kindly words to the shy little children who came to see them.

Too Much

But the sight of their eager faces and the little wishes they whispered were too much for Wally.

"I couldn't bear to see them go away disappointed," he said. "Then I had an idea. There were a lot of toys on the shelves nearby that no one seemed to be buying. So I started handing them to some of the children as an extra present."

After all, Wally thought, Christmas is a time for giving. So Wally gave — and gave — and gave.

Couldn't Resist

"They were such lovable little kids that I couldn't resist it," Wally recalled. "After all, I always believed Santa Claus was supposed to be kindhearted and do things like that."

Unfortunately for Wally, for the children — and for the spirit of Christmas — a store official saw what Santa was doing. He pointed out very firmly to Wally that, while Christmas is Christmas, business is business.

The half-a-crown (35 cents) the kiddies paid for entrance tickets to Santa's workshop entitled them to the standard present from Santa's sack and nothing more.

Hard Facts

But Wally couldn't accept the hard facts of commercial life. So the store very politely told him not to come around any more. In short, he was fired.

"We are sorry about this," said a store official. "Mr. Bates was extremely popular with the children. But, of course, we had to stop him giving away toys indiscriminately."

At home, Wally sat thinking back on his reign as Santa. The sad fact of life, he learned, is that Santa mustn't really give things away. "The trouble is," he sighed, "I just let my Christmas spirit get the better of me."

South Dakota Farmers Bar Transfer Of ASCS Records

. . . MARSHALS TO USE FORCE IF NEEDED

Mound City, S.D. (UPI) — A U.S. marshal made plans Sunday night to remove Department of Agriculture records — by force if necessary — from this defiant wind-swept prairie town.

Townfolk have barricaded records of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in a building here in protest to moving of the Campbell County ASCS office to neighboring Herreid.

Marshal Leonard Heckathorn said in Sioux Falls that deputies Robert Rich and Donald Herman would meet with 16 special deputies Monday night to make final plans to remove the records in Mound City. Herman was one of the federal marshals sent to Mississippi when Negro James Meredith was admitted to the State University.

Rabble-Rousers

Asst. U.S. District Atty. Travis H. Lewin, who appeared at a mass meeting in a school house in Mound City Saturday night, blamed "out-of-state rabble-rousers" for the agitation.

He said it was evident that extremist agitators were influencing the townspeople, because, he said, "many of those we've been battling were subdued Saturday — helping keep order."

He told the townspeople he was prepared to stand behind the terms of a letter of last Thursday — either give up the records or federal marshals will take them with force.

"It will happen within the next two weeks," he said.

He said his pleas at the meeting had no effect.

Lewin, 29, said he spent Sunday morning trying to set up a conference between Mound City leaders and Washington officials. Deputy Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation administrator Ray Fitzgerald, a former South Dakota secretary of agriculture, agreed to come to Mound City, but Lewis said "not while they hold onto those records."

"You saw what happened in Mississippi," Lewis told a meeting of 200 persons — numbering more than the entire 144 population of Mound City. "We don't want any trouble but I'll have to bring marshals in."

The records are locked in a building that used to house the Campbell County office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Sealed Up

The townspeople sealed up the building and barricaded the front with sandbags because the ASCS moved its Campbell County office to Herreid, a larger town north of here.

"It's not a fight between Mound City and Herreid," one man yelled from the floor, "but between the farmers and the government." Mound City and Herreid have been feuding over the location of the county seat for years but Mound City, pop. 144, always has managed to hold onto the courthouse.

Lewin told the crowd, "you are holding the records vital to the ASCS program. You do not have the right to hold the records even though the building owners do not participate in the ASCS program, they are not USDA officials. This is not an ultimatum but a statement of fact."

Grass Roots

He was asked whether the fact that 3 separate county ASCS committees favored keeping the office in Mound City was not "grass roots control. The majority of the farmers want the office in Mound City, why shouldn't it be that way?"

Lewin said the county committee would not have signed a lease at the Herreid office if they did not think it was the right thing to do.

Under Duress

Mound City's whole contention, townspeople said, is that the contract for the office at Herreid was executed under duress.

Lewin said Mound City can get the office back by legal means, but in the meantime, he said, "you are jeopardizing your position by holding on to these records."

After the meeting, one Mound Citian said, "we've held the records here for a year and a half. We're not going to give them up that easily. It would be like giving candy to a baby."

BACK 20 MILES IN SOME AREAS

. . . Indian Patrols Cautious

Tezpur, India (P) — Red China's troops appeared Sunday to be pulling back as promised in at least some areas of the Himalayan borderland. Indian patrols cautiously scouted the foothills.

An authoritative source said the Chinese seem to have withdrawn 20 miles at some points on their way back from the frontline positions they gained in their massive thrusts into northeast India two weeks ago.

Radio Peking told of a withdrawal in one sector — the eastern tip of the front where the Reds' November drive carried to positions 80 miles south of Walong.

Minor Villages

Without discussing the mileage, the broadcast said the Chinese pulled back Saturday "north of Penchiung from Chila and Samuwei."

High military sources in Tezpur were quoted as saying Chinese troops still held positions in the Luhit River valley of eastern India, near the Burma border.

One of the two main Chinese drives toward the Assam Plains came down along the Luhit after smashing the Indian defenses at Walong.

Do The Same

Peking announced in its one-sided cease-fire proclamation Nov. 21 that it would start moving Chinese troops Dec. 1 to positions behind the lines of actual control of Nov. 7, 1959, and that it wanted India to do the same.

With the time for those withdrawals at hand, Prime Minister Nehru sharply rejected key points Saturday and asked Premier Chou En-lai's Red government for further clarification. Nehru said China's provisions would leave it in possession of the fruits of aggression — 2,000 square miles of Ladakh in the northwest and strategic mountain passes in the northeast.

The Chinese intended to stand pat in Ladakh, the high and barren site of a highway they have built to link their Sinkiang Province with Chinese-occupied Tibet. But they proposed to give up the bulk of their gains in the north-east.

It is obvious the Indians are treading carefully.

Five Indian army jeeps cruised Saturday north of the first range of the Himalayan foothills without making contact with the Chinese. It appeared that civil authorities will get the job of verifying the Chinese withdrawal because of fears that continued use of the military would give Peking cause to charge provocation.

India Will Battle For Every Inch

New Delhi, India (P) — India will fight to clear Communist Chinese troops from every inch of Indian soil rather than accept Peking's terms for peace, two members of Prime Minister Nehru's cabinet declared Sunday.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan said there can be no doubt about India's ultimate victory.

"We do not want to have any compromise with anybody unless every inch of our territory is vacated," Chavan told a public meeting.

The Indian Communist Party came out in support of Nehru's position for a settlement.

The party accused China of "long and careful preparation" for the fall invasion and said the Indian government proposals, which would strip the Chinese of all the gains, are reasonable.

Common Market Chief Aims At U.S. Farmer

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A German statesman, Dr. Walter Hallstein, president of the commission of the European Economic Community (EEC) or common market will direct his address here Thursday to the American farmer.

Dr. Hallstein, who will visit Nebraska Wesleyan University, speaks perfect English, and during his visit he will be awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by Wesleyan.

For many Nebraskans it will be their first contact with Europe's Common Market. A Gallup Poll taken last year revealed that only one person in 8 could adequately identify the Common Market.

Scrutiny of U.S. To understand the market, one must go back to 1950 when Western European countries recovering from World War II were taking a close look at the economic freedom of the United States.

They liked the freedom of trade that existed between states and sought a means of applying it to their countries.

In May 1950, Robert Schuman, foreign minister of France, made a proposal that cut centuries of European tradition in erasing old barriers that separated them.

The idea caught on in the next few months with France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg and The Netherlands setting up the European Coal and Steel Community.

Steel production increased 84% in 8 years time under the arrangement.

Way Paved

This paved the way for the Common Market, or a means for the 6 countries to combine in negotiating to extend the program to all products. In March 1957, the European Economic Community, or Common Market was formed.

The United Kingdom, first reluctant to join, is now negotiating for membership. These countries have been the market for nearly one-third of all U.S. agricultural exports. The prime thought of U.S. negotiators is to obtain adequate assurances that access to export markets for our agricultural products is maintained.

Dr. Hallstein has said that while in Lincoln he will try to convince the somewhat hesitant American farmer that an Atlantic partnership with the Common Market will provide an equitable share of the market for U.S. farm products.

Poultry Fear

His first assurance will need to be at quieting the fears of U.S. agricultural leaders who are alarmed at the Common Market imposing a minimum import price higher than the U.S. export price for poultry.

DR. WALTER HALLSTEIN

Poultrymen say that the same thing could happen to other agricultural products, and if the Common Market establishes additional duties, it will deny consumers in the market countries the benefits of low-cost American production.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, in a straight-from-the-shoulder address in Paris, France, recently told the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development that an all-out effort would be made to maintain a strong foreign market for U.S. farm products.

Freeman reviewed the tools the U.S. has for trading, namely the new U.S. Trade Expansion Act which he said could be used as an effective tool in persuading the Common Market countries not to discriminate against our farm goods.

No Wall Wanted

He cautioned market countries against erecting barriers to U.S. farm imports in order to protect uneconomic farm production within their group.

A recent study made for the EEC Commission estimates that the present EEC area could be 88% self-sufficient by 1965 if present domestic farm programs were continued, according to Everett E. Peterson, University of Nebraska economist.

Freeman bluntly told those connected with the Common Market that, under the Trade Expansion Act to protect American agricultural markets retaliatory action, if necessary, could be taken against imports from the countries that put objectionable barriers in the path of American exports.

Freeman has asked for global and non-discriminatory trading agreements. He has asked that trade in the widest possible range of agricultural commodities and foodstuffs be regulated by moderate fixed tariffs.

He suggested that international commodity arrangements be used to deal with some of the troublesome agricultural trade problems.

Strength by Trade

Dr. Hallstein believes that any trade expansion will strengthen the free world and may turn out to be a useful contribution to the maintenance of peace and freedom which are paramount among the values the West wants to safeguard.

The German statesman has supported the thought that the economic integration of Europe is not an end in itself, but a means to the end of political unification.

Dr. Hallstein may soothe some fears among those in the traditional stronghold of isolation when he quickly adds that "no Atlantic government is being contemplated."

The American and integrated European countries have many common potentialities, dangers, problems and objectives, according to Dr. Hallstein.

Confidence A Must

He says the ultimate decisive question will be whether either side is confident of being able to secure an equitable share of the market.

A number of American spokesmen have advanced the thought that it may be more advantageous for Common Market countries to depend upon imported foodstuffs and use production resources for lines in which the comparative advantage is greater.

After the birth of the Common Market, more than 800 American firms undertook new operations in Western Europe, entered into joint ventures with European partners, or licensed the manufacture of their products to a European firm. From 1950 to 1960 the value of U.S. investment in Europe more than tripled.

Today about nine-tenths of our pulp is made from wood.

USDA economists have compared yields and returns for pulp crops with corn and wheat. They found that on 80-bushel corn land, pulp crops would yield 10.3 tons of dry matter with a market price of $12 per ton.

The pulp crops have several advantages over pulp from trees as the kenaf, hemp, crotalaria, seabania, okra and sorghum often fit specialty paper needs better, and genetic improvement can be secured at a faster rate than with timber, researchers point out.

By Glenn Kreuscher, Farm Editor

Another crop like soybeans might solve a good many farm problems.

This observation was made recently by a Midwest agricultural editor who pointed out that soybeans are now grown on 27 million acres of U.S. farmland.

The same editor paid credit to Nebraska's research program to find new uses for agricultural products.

Bright Spot

He said one of the 'brightest spots' for agriculture is that of providing pulp for the paper-making industry. Our per-capita use of pulp wood has risen from 285 pounds in 1920 to 1,115 pounds in 1960, and those close to the industry say the end of the increase is nowhere in sight.

Today about nine-tenths of our pulp is made from wood.

USDA economists have compared yields and returns for pulp crops with corn and wheat. They found that on 80-bushel corn land, pulp crops would yield 10.3 tons of dry matter with a market price of $12 per ton.

The pulp crops have several advantages over pulp from trees as the kenaf, hemp, crotalaria, seabania, okra and sorghum often fit specialty paper needs better, and genetic improvement can be secured at a faster rate than with timber, researchers point out.

Several of these crops have been tried in Nebraska research. If researchers can improve present yields and more research can be applied to pulp conversion, crop observers see no reason why the family farm couldn't have another annual income crop that would build soil, prevent erosion and have feed and industrial value.

Out-of-state observers have suggested that Nebraska research might be directed more to the pulp aspects that oil from seeds in future programs.

Starch Use

Several research projects have been carried on by Nebraska with the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Appleton, Wis., investigating the use of starch in papermaking.

Kenaf was grown experimentally in Richardson County during the past crop season but appraisal is not yet available.

The 1962 experimental program for new crops centered at the Boys Training School at Kearney showed good prospects for further research into possibilities of growing more new crops in Nebraska, according to Nebraska's Department of Agriculture.

Little attention publicly has been given the Department of Agriculture's plans if a national emergency — such as the Cuban crisis—would turn a cold war into heated conflict.

There is a special assistant to the secretary of agriculture who heads up an office on defense mobilization planning.

The plans to step up crop production, invoke price controls and control distribution of feed and machinery are carefully filed.

Tough rules governing sale of farm machinery and repair parts are spelled out in a memorandum sent to the nation's dealers and distributors last spring.

Gas Ban, Too

In event of national emergency the sale of new machinery would be halted immediately, items could not be moved from a dealer's business without orders from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). An immediate ban would also be placed on the sale of gasoline and other fuels.

The USDA also has authority to freeze sales of food products at the wholesale level and back to the farm. The chief purpose would be to prevent hoarding of ready-to-eat foods, say those acquainted with the plans.

Farm spokesmen have pointed out how a troublesome surplus, often the target

Pope John Appears; Regaining His Health

Vatican City (AP) — Pope John XXIII made a brief public appearance at an open window of his fourth floor apartment Sunday after a week of illness. He blessed the watching crowd in St. Peter's square and said he is already regaining his health.

"Good health, which threatened to leave us, is about to return — much more, it does return," the 81-year-old Catholic Pontiff announced, to cheers of the people below.

A loudspeaker carried his voice clearly and strongly. Standing at the window in a chilly breeze for 4 minutes, he looked rested and seemed in good spirits. He raised his arms vigorously in his usual Sunday benediction of the crowd, which he had not wanted to disappoint.

The Pope, whose stomach disorder and anemia has caused deep concern in the Vatican, implied that he hoped to be well enough to take part in ceremonies next Saturday closing the first phase of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council. The Vatican had given out word Saturday that the Pope hoped to give his usual Sunday benediction. Almost 50,000 Romans turned out. Bishops here for the council sessions and tourists swelled the throng.

Little Weather Change Likely

Little change in weather conditions is expected in Nebraska Monday.

Mild temperatures, considerable night and morning cloudiness and variable amounts of afternoon sunshine are anticipated.

Highs generally are to be in the 50s with increasing southerly winds in the central portion.

The state high of 58 degrees was recorded at Omaha Sunday; Chadron had the low of 16. Lincoln had 57 and 44.

Pen Inmates Provide 'Frosting For Cake'

By GENE BUDIG
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Milford — Lowell Welsh counts inmates at the Nebraska Penitentiary as assets, not liabilities.

"They've saved us more than $30,000," declares the director of the State Vocational Technical School here.

He continues, "Without their assistance our new classrooms would be without tile on the floors. Many of the walls would be without paint."

The director says that the original allotment from the Legislature would have left "much of the cake without frosting."

The cake is a spacious new $600,000 addition to the Milford campus.

"When I say more than $30,000," Welsh says, "this is the most conservative estimate possible as far as I'm concerned."

The inmates, all on trusty status, worked well over 25,000 hours during the past year, he says.

Welsh reports that they not only laid 15,000 square feet of floor tile and painted, but also assisted in razing of the old administration building and grading of roads.

"They've learned, too," he says. "We have tried to teach them things that will help them in later life on the outside."

"Some of the men have expressed interest in returning to the school as students."

Personal Interest

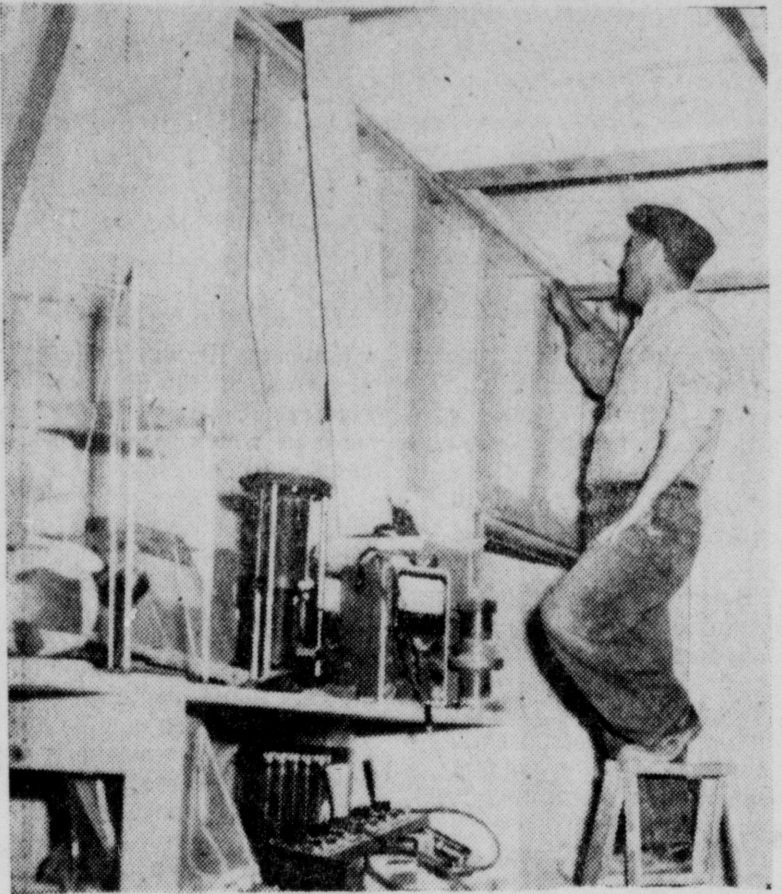

"They have almost all taken a personal interest in our school and our building program. We are very grateful to them and I sure hope they will continue to assist us."

The school pays the penitentiary $1 per day for each man's efforts. Usually, there are 10 or 12 inmates at work.

A guard accompanies the workers, described by Welsh as "extremely well mannered and ambitious."

Students have shaved construction costs, too.

The schoolman says upperclassmen did most of the heating and electrical work as part of their practical training.

Gas Station Stop Saves Ohio Man From Booby Trap Blast

Cleveland (AP) — The fact that Robert Hill's car needed gasoline Sunday probably saved him from a booby trap primed to explode.

Hill, 61, drove into a service station near his East Side home. While he was getting gasoline, the attendant checked his oil and water.

Detective Sgt. Rudy Marik gave this account of the succeeding events:

A friend of the attendant stopped by and noticed a cigar box attached to the motor of Hill's car. He pulled it out and realizing it might be a bomb, threw it on the ground.

Police were called and detective Norman Roubal disarmed the bomb, comprised of two sticks of dynamite, and wrapped the detonator cap in a blanket. Within 5 minutes, the detonator cap exploded.

The bomb also was equipped with a timing device — similar to one used in washing machines—which

POSTCARD by Sten Holopland

The jeweler's window outside the Hotel Plaza is a glittering display of diamonds and emeralds on black velvet. Right up there with Tiffany. Or Van Cleef and Arpels in Paris. Or Bulgari's on the Via Condotti in Rome.

A block down the street called Florida—(it leads to the Pink House where Evita and Juan Peron made merry)—the bank is posting a new rating for the peso: Pesos 150 to the U.S. $1.

Just a short time ago it was 83 to the $1.

"Argentina is now paying for what Evita bought in this shop," said the reporter from La Prensa.

Well, they're talking about revolution again in gay Buenos Aires. Revolution in Argentina is a homey sort of affair.

The Army and the Air Force and the Navy and the Pink House are all on the big square. The Admirals and Generals can lean right out the window and pot their opposite numbers.

The whole area is scarred with bullets from previous political campaigns.

Although the country hasn't fought a war since 1902 (with neighbor Chile), the military expense is extremely high.

The military gentlemen take a deep interest in politics. And there's always a temptation if you're losing to step out of the voting booth and into a buttoned-down tank.

Ex-Bugs Moran Gangster Gunned

East St. Louis, Ill. (AP) — A one-time member of Chicago's Bugs Moran gang was shot to death by 3 shotgun blasts fired from ambush early Sunday.

The victim was identified as Virgil Wilson Summers, 49, who police said was a henchman of the late Chicago gang leader.

Police said they had been keeping Summers under periodic surveillance. Little was known of what he had been doing in East St. Louis.

There's a home-made bomb thrown nearly every night in the capital.

And the United States Information Service office is guarded by two soldiers with those stubby, Israeli-made machine guns.

Where in the world did the money go? The reporter from La Prensa—it's one of the world's great free newspapers, no easy trick in this country—said:

"At the end of World War II, we had a treasury balance of $1,680 million dollars. "When Peron left in 1955, we owed $757 million externally and $2,800 million internally."

Some of it went right into the jewelry shop—"Evita made this shop famous and rich."

A fair chunk went out of the country with Peron who now lives high on the Spanish hog in Madrid. They say here that Peron planted his social security in U.S. securities.

(This shows a certain fairness. Since 1946, the United States and the Export-Import Bank handed over $452 million in loans and $2 million in grants. It is nice to know that some of it is deposited with us.)

"The rest of it went to massive pay increases for the right voters. You know, Peron could never win elections in Buenos Aires. So he moved in people from the country—let them build quarter settlements and gave them State aid."

"Then he built up the military and armed them to the teeth. We bought 40 jet fighters from Britain. And they are very useful in politics."

The present situation is a little like the fly-now-pay-later vacation plan.

"Under Peron everybody was flying. Under Frondizi (the ex-President), everybody paid for the flight."

Frondizi went out. The Peronistas cast 30% of the national vote and are on the increase.

"They all want to keep flying. Nobody wants to start paying."

The peso is slipping. A new finance Minister is making statements this morning: "The crisis is over." Nobody believes it. And that's the way it is in the South American Spring in Buenos Aires. Distributed by The Chronicle Features

CHATTER — in the — CORRIDOR

By BARBARA TREBELHORN

Many activities have been going on during these past two weeks at Southeast. Among them the new reserve cheerleaders were tapped at the chili feed sponsored by the varsity cheerleaders. New reserve cheerleaders are Cathie Henderson, Jeanie Howard, Kitty McManus, Patty Unthank and Gary Weber. They will cheer at the reserve basketball games this winter.

County Government Day was Wednesday and representatives of the junior class of Southeast and other high schools in the county attended the orientation about the work of the county officials. Those attending from Southeast were Ann Windle, Liz Aitken, Barry Hanson, Jan Binger, Barb Walters, Dick Campbell, Ron Pfeifer, Patty Unthank, Craig Dennis, Lynne Gage, Tony Myers and Jeanie Howard.

Waiting for that letter to come telling who will go where are the four AFS finalists. They are Lynne Gage, Wayne Kreuscher, Janice McDaniel and Linda Thoman. As finalists their names have been sent to the New York AFS office where possible AFSers are being matched with families.

Student Council has announced this week its plans for a series of open meetings for non-members of Student Council to discuss the possibilities of changing the cheerleading system.

As it now stands, five reserve cheerleaders are chosen from the junior class to cheer for reserve basketball games. These five reserves usually become the nucleus of the group of seven varsity cheerleaders who cheer for games throughout their senior year. These cheerleaders usually are the junior and senior prom attendants, Homecoming attendants and All-Sports royalty.

If the new plan goes through, cheerleaders will be elected for the reserve basketball season, football and basketball season, with the cheerleader of the previous season not eligible for successive seasons.

Another part of the plan would be that once a girl had been an attendant she is no longer eligible to be an attendant to any other honor. By using this plan, Southeast students hope to give more girls than the limited number that are now in the limelight.

Quinquaginta Southeast art club, has made plans with the University of Nebraska Art Gallery to display original works of art in the Lobby of Southeast. These works will be on loan from the University in hopes that students will take notice in art and become more aware of Lincoln's cultural outlets.

A Festive Spirit Pervades Suburbia

EASTRIDGE

It's "busy time" again in Suburbia, and no place is busier than the Orville Vandeweghe home in Eastridge. Mr. and Mrs. Vandeweghe, if you recall, have six children — Derry, Vikki, Brad, Janine, Karen, and Bryan — which makes for a busy day every day, but this week the family's activities are especially extraordinary.

The Vandeweges are playing hosts, baby sitters, and moving advisors to Mrs. Vandeweghe's sister and family who are moving to Nebraska after 17 years in Philadelphia, Pa.

Her sister, Mrs. William Bennett, is the former Miss Jenne Eis, and she and Mr. Bennett and their sons, Gary, 16, Stephen, 8, and Robert, 4, have come to Nebraska with plans of finding a home in Omaha.

Presently they are in Lincoln, dividing visits between Mr. and Mrs. Vandeweghe and Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Nelly Eis, and also commuting between Lincoln and Omaha while house-hunting.

Thursday evening was a very special for the whole family, for everyone took time out of the moving activities to celebrate Master Stephen Bennett's birthday. His birthday was last Tuesday, the day the Bennetts moved from Philadelphia to Lincoln.

And as an added bit of interest, we might tell you that the Bennett family will have another moving day scheduled next spring, for they will be returning to Lincoln to make their home here!

And from a very complicated birthday celebration we move on to another, not-so-complex, but undoubtedly just as much fun. Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Miller joined in a family gathering Wednesday evening to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Miller's father. The celebrant, C. A. Heileman, had "happy wishes" from Mrs. Heileman, his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Heileman and their children Alan and B. J., and his daughter, Miss Carolee Heileman, all of whom were party guests.

And speaking of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Heileman, who are Bethany Park Heights residents, we might also mention that they had guests from St. Joseph, Mo., for the weekend. Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Heileman were their daughter, Mrs. E. W. Johnson, and her children, Kenneth and Phyllis.

Two University of Nebraska grads, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nichols, who now are living in Denver, Colo., hosted a former classmate from Lincoln last week at their home in the Mile High City. The Eastridge resident visiting in Denver was Mrs. Keith Johnson, who arrived home yesterday after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Nichols.

And the Christmas activities have begun in Eastridge! That's right, Eastridge housewives gathered this week for the first of what we imagine will be several Christmas coffees in the neighborhood.

Hosting this one, which also was a formal welcome for four neighbors who moved into the Eastridge area this fall, were Mrs. Jerome A. Cain and Mrs. Bill Heine-mann.

The coffee, which was at the Cain home last Thursday evening, was attended by 19 neighbors, and those four guests of honor were Mrs. Gerold Anderson, Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf, Mrs. Robert K. Skillen, and Mrs. Ralph Deeds.

White poinsettias and clusters of lighted candles appointed the chancel of First Plymouth Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 2, for the marriage of Miss Gwendolyn Vasina of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Vasina of David City, to Dwayne G. Neujahr, Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Neujahr of Surprise. The ceremony was solemnized at 3 o'clock by Dr. J. Ford Forsyth, and Ernest Bedell, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Miss Janet Nixon of Plattsmouth.

Wearing sheaths of gold silk fashioned in the daytime mode, and carrying bouquets of white carnations and Fuji chrysanthemums were Mrs. Rod Armstrong, as the matron of honor, and Miss Mary Jo Vasina of Omaha, who was her sister's maid of honor.

Howard Neujahr served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Mike Vasina of Milford, and John Vasina, brothers of the bride, and Wayne Neujahr, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of silk taffeta in the ivory tone designed in the princess mode. Fitted, bracelet sleeves and a sabrina neckline highlighted by floral appliques of jeweled lace accented the bodice, and the voluminous skirt was caught into side and back fullness and extended into a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held by a pearl crown, and she carried a cascade of white orchids and Fuji chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Neujahr will reside at 2033 E. A veteran of two years service with the Army, the bridegroom will attend the University of Nebraska.

The bidding:
East South West North
1 4 4 4
Pass Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead — nine of diamonds.

This hand was played two years ago in the inter-city team match between Los Angeles and New York. Considering that both teams included the finest talent that could be assembled, the results obtained at the two tables where the hand was played were quite remarkable.

The bidding and the opening lead were exactly the same at both tables. At the first table, with a New York holding the South cards, declarer ruffed the ace of diamonds and led the king of spades!

This startling play had more in its favor than appears on the surface. Declarer was hoping to catch the singleton queen or jack in East's hand and thus restrict himself to two trump losers instead of the three he would otherwise lose by leading a low spade. (Note that in the actual hand the defense can take three spade tricks regardless of how South plays the trumps.)

East took the king with the ace and returned a low club. South won with the queen and then overtook the king of hearts with the ace. He was now able to discard his remaining clubs on the queen of hearts and K-Q of diamonds and later lost two trump tricks to make four spades doubled.

At this table, the Los Angeles declarer did one trick better! He also ruffed the diamond, but led the ten of spades at trick two instead of the king.

At this table, declarer reasoned that East's opening bid included three aces, and he therefore did not lead the king. West must have been afraid that South was trying to put something over on him, since he played the jack on declarer's ten.

East was forced to overtake the jack with the ace, and just as at the first table, underled the ace of clubs. As a result, South didn't lose a club trick at this table either and made five spades doubled, losing only two trump tricks.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Please print this to let other wives know how one wife feels about office parties. I think it's silly for a wife to try to keep her husband from going. Let him go and tell him to have a good time. If he kisses a widow—so what? Or even a divorcee. If a man knows he has all the freedom he wants, he won't take it. Half the fun of swiping green apples is the danger and risk of stealing them. I shove my husband at other women all the time and he hardly looks at them because having my okay takes all the fun out of it. Try it. It works.

JULIET
DEAR JULIET: And what if it doesn't work? You'll have to go hunt up your husband in somebody else's orchard. No, thanks. I say tell him you love him, refuse to share him, and if you catch him straying you'll have his scalp!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who is worried about her brother. He is 17, very good-looking, has a build like TARZAN and I think there is something the matter with him. He doesn't like girls!

All he is interested in is sports, his guitar, hunting and country music. He doesn't even like rock and roll. How can I get him interested in girls?

TARZAN'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Leave him alone. He's normal. He'll discover "girls" soon enough—or some "Jane" will discover him!

Teamsters Hit Coloring Book

... PUBLISHED BY CWA

By JOHN HERBERS
Washington (UPI) — More than 17,000 communication equipment installers in 7,440 cities and towns across the country received in the mail this week a "Teamster Coloring Book" published by the Communications Workers of America (CWA).

One page showed a man whose pockets were bulging with money. "My name is James R. Hoffa," the caption read. "The R is for Riddle. Guess whether I will do as much for you as you do for me. Color my pockets green."

To get the reaction of Hoffa's International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a person had only to dial a special number and listen to a tape recording.

Assuring
The coloring book, an assuring voice said, "is designed for one purpose — to get your mind off the real issue. Your wages are below that of a common laborer, your pension is sub-standard, telephone company craftsmen make at least $20 a week more than you do. But what do you receive? A coloring book."

The 17,000 installers for the Western Electric Co. are the object of one of the most bitter union "raids" in many a year. The Teamsters want to replace the CWA as bargaining agent for the men who install heavy and long-range equipment in the Bell Telephone System across the country.

The AFL-CIO, which expelled the Teamsters in 1957 on corruption charges and is supporting the CWA, fears that if Hoffa is successful he may be in a position to move in on 250,000 other CWA members who work in the Bell system. This would give him more power to branch out in other areas.

Show of Interest
As a result, both sides are throwing vast resources into the propaganda fight for the votes that will be taken this month by the National Labor Relations Board. The Teamsters obtained "show of interest" cards from 30% of the installers, enough to obtain the election.

The NLRB will mail ballots

Thursday to installers in 44 states. The ballots must be returned by Dec. 28. They will be counted in the board's New York office Jan. 4. If the Teamsters win they will replace the CWA early next year.

The scrap started last February when CWA President Joseph A. Biernie signed a contract with Western Electric over the objections of Kenneth A. Silvers, national director of the installers unit. Silvers charged the contract called for sub-standard wages and working conditions for employees who must be highly skilled.

Expelled
Silvers and others later were expelled from the CWA on charges of attempting to turn the organization over to the Teamsters. Now Silvers is leading the Teamster campaign to lure the installers at a salary reported to be $25,000 a year.

Biernie contends that, although the installers are lower paid than other telephone company workers, the union has been improving the relative position every year. The CWA says the hourly average wage for installers is $3.01.

The CWA and Western Electric could have postponed the showdown for another year under a new NLRB ruling but both agreed last week to go ahead with the election. Although the company is barred by law from entering into the fight, its management is known to be extremely concerned over the possibility it might have to do business with Hoffa.

'Dirty One'
In pamphlets, letters, posters and special newspapers the CWA has been warning installers against "swapping a clean union" run in "democratic" fashion for what it termed a "dirty one" controlled by Hoffa.

The Teamsters, citing their success in the trucking industry, claim they can obtain better wages and working conditions.

Although both sides claim enough votes to win, the election is expected to be close.

AFL-CIO Support
The AFL-CIO has been contributing "money and men" to the CWA to combat the first attempt by the Teamsters since they were expelled to raid a basic AFL-CIO affiliate. Federation leaders fear a Hoffa victory might whet his appetite for an all-out fight.

Hoffa, however, has been having troubles in his own ranks. His union barely won against a rebel Teamsters group in an NLRB election in Philadelphia last month and other small locals across the country have pulled out.

But the Teamsters, with 1.4 million members, is the nation's largest union. It has had success expanding into fringe industries and continues to prosper.

Smugglers Deported
Hong Kong (UPI) — Seven persons believed to be members of a refugee smuggling ring operating between Macao and Hong Kong were deported to Communist China.

U.S. MARINES HEADING HOME

A plane just in from patrol of Cuban waters heads in for a landing passing over a staging area for U.S. Marine troops heading for home after duty at the big Guantanamo Naval Base during the Cuban crisis. Men and equipment jam the ferry landing, used for the staging, as they get ready to board their troopships. The Marines are troops of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment.

Thant Calls For More 'Give, Take' Solutions

Baltimore, Md. (UPI) — U.N. Secretary General Thant Sunday called on the United States and the Soviet Union to follow up their Cuba compromise with "give and take" solutions on Berlin and other cold war issues.

In the first public policy statement since his unanimous election last Friday to the top U.N. post, the 53-year-old Burmese diplomat suggested that Western and Communist powers come to the United Nations and negotiate compromise solutions to East-West disputes with his help.

Thant said he was convinced that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev did not want war and was sincere in his calls for peaceful co-existence.

Apparently Failing
He chided the Western powers for apparently failing to recognize the "full significance" of the changes in Moscow's thinking since the death of Josef Stalin.

Thant, however, praised President Kennedy for agreeing to the neutralization of Laos and thus admitting "wisely" that the "attempt to create a pro-Western government in Asia had failed."

He said Kennedy has accepted the view that "the best the West could hope for in Asia — and for that matter Africa — are governments which fear outside interference and subversion as much as they hate colonialism; and that the function of Western policy should be the creation of a framework within which they can exercise their own freedom of choice."

Recalls Role

Delivering the George Huntington Williams Memorial Lecture at Johns Hopkins University, Thant recalled his mediating role in the Cuban crisis negotiations, which he said had led to an agreement on "certain fundamentals between the two major powers."

"There may be many who may wish for a more complete and comprehensive solution of the Cuban crisis, but in this imperfect world, we have, at least for the moment, to accept less than perfect solutions," Thant said.

Thant titled his lecture "East-West Relations and The United Nations." It was a stirring plea for building the U.N. into a far more effective instrument for international cooperation than hitherto.

May Help

"Looking to the future I hope that the spirit of compromise which marked the discussions between the Soviet Union and the United States in the case of Cuba may help the solution of some of the outstanding cold war issues of the world today, both general and local," Thant said. He expressed the hope that agreement would be found on disarmament and nuclear testing.

"There are various other issues like Berlin on which it may become imperative to reach solutions on the basis of compromise and the principle of give-and-take on both sides. In all these situations the United Nations is available to the major powers, as it is to all its members, as a channel of friendly contact and informal discussion, and not merely a forum for public debate."

He said the U.N. already was a "cold war battleground" mainly because it was "the greatest public forum in the world today."

Possible

"In this forum it is possible over the years to debate great issues, and to enlarge the area of agreement and narrow the differences, so that over the years the solution of the most intractable problems may be come feasible," Thant said.

"No one will question that the work of the United Nations has been in no small measure responsible for the astonishingly rapid emergence of so many African countries as sovereign states and full members of the international community. I would hope that the General Assembly may become even more effective as a public assembly by providing opportunities for personal contacts between the leaders of the world, as also for rational debate on difficult issues, so that the U.N. truly serves the purpose set out in the charter to become the center for harmonizing the actions of nations."

Some diplomatic quarters saw this as a hint to major world figures including Kennedy and Khrushchev to come and thrash out their differences at U.N. headquarters.

Tito Heads For Soviet; Talks Seen

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito headed by train Sunday to the Soviet Union for a visit that may help paper over the Soviet-Yugoslav quarrel which Stalin bequeathed to his Kremlin heirs.

The trip is billed as a vacation, but Tito certainly will talk with Premier Khrushchev and other Soviet officials. It marks a new improvement in relations between the two communist nations, up and down at intervals since the break of 1948. The present trend is upward.

Tito and Khrushchev last met in 1960 in New York, where they attended meetings of the U.N. General Assembly. Tito last visited the Soviet Union in 1956.

Khrushchev is expected to continue to probe for a basis for settling ideological differences. The Yugoslav leader, however, has put prime emphasis on bettering relations between the two governments rather than between the two communist parties.

The Soviet premier is also expected to raise again the question of Yugoslavia's participation in signing a separate peace treaty with East Germany. Tito in the past has limited himself to endorsements of the Soviet line in the Berlin crisis.

The two leaders will have a wide field of problems to discuss. One topic without doubt will be the rift in Moscow-Peking relations and its influence on world communist affairs.

With Tito went his wife Jovanka; Vice President Alexander Rankovic; Ivan Krajacic and Boris Krajger, members of Tito's cabinet; and Dobrovoje Vidic, chairman of the council for foreign relations of the communist-dominated socialist alliance.

The presence of Krajger, who is the president of the governmental council for economic affairs, indicates economic problems will be discussed.

Yugoslavia is going through a difficult period. A food shortage is one problem. However, the United States agreed last Wednesday to help alleviate that. It is providing 1,200,000 tons of wheat.

The duration of Tito's visit was not announced.

British Group Improves X-Ray

London (AP)—Britain's Thorn Electrical Industries Group announced Sunday it has begun manufacture of an electronic photographic plate which can be used to take up to 10,000 X-rays.

A spokesman said the plate, made of coated steel, gives an immediately visible picture without the need for any developing. He said it would reduce the cost of X-rays 95%.

The Thorn Group — a $150 million assemblage — said the plate also had a big potential in space age science and that top secret investigations of its military uses are already being carried out.

The spokesman said it would also enable a surgeon to determine immediately during a cancer operation whether he had cut away all cancerous growth.

The new plate, he said, operates with a much weaker light source than a conventional one and, therefore, there is less radiation danger. One new plate, he said, will do the work of an 80-foot-high stack of old ones.

The spokesman said he believed that within two years every operating room where cancer surgery is done will have an electron microscope for examination of body tissue.

At present, he said, the power of the electron beam is such that there is a risk of tissue being damaged.

With the Thorn plate, the power of the beam could be reduced to well within the safety level. The surgeon could then examine the photograph produced within seconds to see whether he had removed all cancerous growth.

Civil Air Patrol 'Comes Of Age'—Notes 21st Birthday

The Civil Air Patrol, volunteer auxiliary of the United States Air Force, will come of age figuratively this week.

Celebrating the organization's 21st birthday, the Lincoln Composite Squadron has scheduled a dinner Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Legionnaire Club.

William John Reynolds of Minneapolis, director of Aerospace Education for the Air Force and CAP, will be guest speaker.

The CAP corporation became a civilian auxiliary of the Air Force by law in 1948 and received Air Force and Department of Defense surplus aircraft to assist it materially in its emergency flying missions.

There are now more than 850 corporation-owned aircraft, which were donated as surplus, plus approximately 3,300 member-owned planes to assist in national search and rescue effort.

Reward To Crew That Found Nina

Los Angeles (AP) — The Wynn Oil Co. of suburban Azusa said Sunday it will pay a $1,000 reward to the crew of a Navy plane which spotted the missing Nina II sailing ship Friday.

The ship, a replica of one of Christopher Columbus' fleet had been missing for two weeks on its voyage from Spain to the Bahamas, duplicating Columbus' voyage of discovery in 1492.

Carl E. Wynn, president of the oil firm, offered the reward last Wednesday. One of the Nina's 8 crewmen, Manuel Darnaude, is a Wynn employee.

Khrushchev Admitted Russia On Defensive

Moscow (AP)—Premier Khrushchev was reported Sunday to have admitted to his communist party leaders that the Soviet Union has been on the defensive in the cold war.

Khrushchev, in a speech Nov. 23 to the Central Committee of the Communist party, was said to have confessed that he had conceded the diplomatic initiative in recent weeks to the United States—particularly during the Cuban crisis.

The report of the still unpublished closing speech at the central committee plenum was circulated here by informed sources.

It was the second leak on the Khrushchev statement in a week.

Sunday's version coincided on a number of points with that reported last week.

Khrushchev was said to have defended his tactic of responding to American initiatives by holding up the concession given by President Kennedy in return for the liquidation of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

This was Kennedy's pledge that there would be no invasion of Cuba.

The account of Khrushchev's remarks did not clarify at what point the Soviet leader figured the Soviet Union had gone over to the defensive. It also was not clear from the report whether he had outlined any plans for regaining the initiative.

Khrushchev was said to have spoken for 2 hours —80 minutes of it extemporaneously.

Forty minutes of his speech, a part prepared in advance, was mainly devoted to a rehash of the economic problems and Khrushchev's plan for reorganizing the communist party and the government.

Then, he was reported to have launched into a 20 minute discussion of Soviet literature and a criticism of the Soviet press as being too dull.

One hour of Khrushchev's speech was said to have been devoted to foreign policy — most of it a briefing on the Cuban crisis.

Dr. John Gabbert Bowman Dies, Determined Educator

Bedford, Pa. (P) — Dr. John Gabbert Bowman, long-time educator whose determination raised the world's tallest educational structure, died Sunday at his home in this southwestern Pennsylvania town. He was 85.

Dr. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh from 1921 to 1945, had been ill for some time.

Last April he was rushed to Bedford County Memorial Hospital in critical condition with an undisclosed illness. He improved slightly and returned home but never recovered fully.

Early in his tenure at Pitt, the 42-story Cathedral of Learning was constructed. Bowman exerted the major force behind the project, bucking strong opposition from within the university itself.

He even appealed for funds to children, asking them to bring in as many pennies as they could spare.

The cathedral, constructed from 1926 to 1929, stands today as Pitt's main building in the heart of the city's educational and cultural center.

Later in his administration, in the early 1930s, Bowman ignited a controversy when he fired an American history professor, Dr. Ralph Turner, for what was termed his radical views. The action prompted off public hearings in Pittsburgh held by the American Association of University Professors.

As a result, Pitt was placed on a university blacklist and was not removed from it until the late 1940s. Turner now is Sterling Professor of History at Yale University.

Bowman was elected to the newly-created post of president of Pitt in 1945 and retired two years later as president-honorary.

Born in Davenport, Iowa, in 1877, Bowman received Bachelor of Arts and Master's Degrees from the University of Iowa. He worked as a newspaper reporter in Iowa and Chicago, then taught English at Iowa and Columbia in New York.

He became president of the University of Iowa in 1911 and was named the first director of the American College of Surgeons in 1915, a post he held for 5 years.

He married Florence Ridgway Berry in 1908. She was killed by a streetcar in Pittsburgh several years ago.

Following his retirement from Pitt, Bowman went to Bedford where he practiced his hobbies of wood-working and ceramics.

Holes Blasted In Berlin Wall

Berlin (P)—Two holes were blasted in the Berlin wall early Sunday at the scene of many previous dramatic escapes.

One blast tore a hole 5 feet high and two feet wide in the communist barrier. The other measured a little over a square foot.

The scene was at the corner of Harzerstrasse and Boucherstrasse, along the wall between the American sector and East Berlin.

The Communists have emptied all houses and bricked up all windows on the side of the street in East Berlin. People had escaped there by letting themselves down on ropes or by jumping into firemen's nets during the early stages of the wall.

Whether anybody escaped through the new holes was not determined.

The East German interior ministry later issued a statement calling the blasts "a severe border provocation."

The statement, distributed by the official East German news agency ADN, blamed them on "West Berlin extremists and (Mayor Willy) Brandt." It said they were trying to heat up Berlin as a trouble spot.

The ministry said the explosion caused considerable damage on both sides of the wall and endangered people's lives.

Beauty Barred Because Of Wart

London (P) — Linda, Scotland's reigning belle, was barred from an English beauty contest Sunday because she has a wart over her left eye.

Linda is a 14-month-old Aberdeen - Angus - Shorthorn crossbred heifer from Perthshire and the champion of Scotland. She is here for the Royal Smithfield (cattle) show. But show chief Basil Walpole ruled:

"The wart was unsightly. It would not be right for the animal to be shown."

NFL Draft Scene Resembles Big-Time Bookie Joint

Chicago (P)—Big green-covered tables litter the floor of the grand ballroom of the Sheraton Chicago Hotel. On them are telephones, ash trays, scratch pads.

At 10:30 a.m., EST, today, representatives of the 14 National Football League clubs will start gathering at their assigned tables.

They will be armed with books packed with scouting reports and other indexed material of college players.

At 11 a.m. the annual draft of talent will start. The selections will be projected on a screen erected on a stage. At one side, at a desk with two telephones and flanked by a large blackboard, will be NFL Commissioner Pete Roselle.

The scene looks all the world like a big bookie joint of the Capone era, and the tension is just as great.

Telephones are there for contacting players, or their coaches, or other sources across the nation.

Before drafting a player, a club likes to know as much first hand information as possible, especially if the gridders also has been drafted by the American Football League. Who does he prefer playing with and how much is the freight?

The AFL draft was Saturday in Dallas. At least one of the NFL's top prospects, 274-pound tackle Junior Buchanan of Louisiana, was sealed off by the AFL. He was the No. 1 choice, the Dallas Texans getting him and signing him on the spot.

Strangely, however, two other choices high on the NFL list, Terry Baker, Oregon State quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner, and towering end Pat Richter of Wisconsin among standouts were not given a tumble through the early rounds by the AFL.

One AFL club owner said Baker was already sewed up by the NFL and another said he heard Baker had a $100,000 offer from Canada. They also must know something about Richter.

At any rate, the AFL draft opened the battle of the bucks as players were put in a position to play one offer against another.

Early round draftees of the AFL include such NFL high priority prospects as quarterback Jerry Stovall of Louisiana State, first choice of the New York Titans; halfback Kermit Alexander of UCLA (Denver); end Tom Hutchinson, Kentucky, (Buffalo); end Dave Robinson, Penn State, (San Diego); end-halfback John MacKay, Syracuse, (Titans).

Tackle Jim Dunaway, Mississippi (Buffalo); tackle Tom Nominia, Miami, Ohio, (Denver); guard Rufus Guthrie, Georgia Tech (San Diego); guard Bob Vogel, Ohio State, (Boston); center-linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, Alabama, (Boston); center Dave Behrman, Michigan State, (Buffalo); and Texas' backs

Jerry Cook (Houston) and Ray Poage (Denver).

The order of the NFL selection is based on composite standings of the 14 clubs through Sunday's games. The last place team gets the first pick. This would be the Los Angeles Rams.

The Rams are expected to grab the 6-foot-3, 191-pound Baker although they have a pair of top quarterbacks from the 1961 draft, Roman Gabriel and Ron Miller, plus veteran Zeke Bratkowski.

A total of 280 players will be plucked in 20 rounds. But each team will not get 20 because some have traded away their selection rights. The New York Giants for instance, yielded its No. 1 pick to St. Louis in the deal for Ralph Guglielmi.

—HORNUNG RETURNS— Green Bay Bounces Back For 41-10 Win

Milwaukee (P)—Paul Hornung returned to starting duty for the first time since Oct. 14 Sunday and Green Bay bounced back from its Detroit disaster with a 41-10 victory over the last-place Los Angeles Rams.

The victory, combined with Detroit win over Baltimore, left Coach Vince Lombardi's Packers one game in front of the Lions in the Western Conference race. Each team has two games to play. The

—BLANDA LEADS WAY— Oilers Keep Lead In East Division

Houston (P)—George Blanda, ignoring a driving rain and a sea of mud, threw 3 touchdowns passes Sunday as the Houston Oilers defeated the Denver Broncos 34-17 to protect their one-half game lead in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

The Denver defeat clinched the Western Division championship for the Dallas Texans even though the Texans were upset by the Buffalo Bills.

Houston jumped into a 10-0

Big Eight Cagers Face Tough Slate

By Associated Press

Big 8 basketball teams scored a 6-game opening night sweep over non-conference opponents, but a tough 5-game card tonight, headed by defending champion Colorado vs. Wichita at Boulder, Colo., will present difficulties.

It will be the season opener for Sox Walseth's club, while Wichita will have the advantage of one game's experience, an 83-72 victory at Wyoming Saturday night.

The Buffaloes have a good chance to repeat if 6-foot-6 Ken Charlton's knee isn't re-injured. Milt Mueller, 6-foot-6, gives the Buuffs a good one-two punch. Sophomore Jim Davis, 6-foot-8, is a nifty rebounder.

Tex Winter's Kansas State Wildcats, after a 66-65 victory at Michigan State, face an even tougher job at Minnesota. Minnesota opened the season with a 78-66 victory over Wake Forest, 3rd place team in the NCAA tournament last year. Gary Marriott, a 6-foot-5 lefthander, paced the Wildcats with 26 points as they came from behind at Michigan State.

Kansas whipped Montana easily 68-56 with its 6-foot-7 sophomore, George Unseld, scoring 18, but will have more trouble with Arkansas. The Razorbacks are paced by 6-foot-6 Tommy Boyer.

Bob Vanatta's debut as Missouri coach was a 79-70 victory over Washington at St. Louis with Bob Price hitting 23. The Tigers should make it two straight against Montana at Columbia.

Nebraska nosed Texas Tech 68-66 with Bill Vincent and Charley Jones the heroes. But the Cornhuskers will be the underdog at Houston. The Cougars are highly rated. Oklahoma opens Tuesday night at SMU.

In other games Saturday night, Oklahoma State crushed Hardin-Simmons 85-59 with James King hitting 29 points and Iowa State clipped South Dakota 73-56.

LIONS SCORE . . . Detroit's Tom Watkins (23) dives into end zone against Colts.

Morrall Comes Off Bench To Drop Baltimore, 21-14

Detroit (P)—Earl Morrall rallied the Detroit Lions' sputtering offense to two touchdowns in the 4th quarter and lifted them to a 21-14 come-from-behind victory over the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

Morrall came off the bench after Johnny Unitas had passed for two Colt touchdowns in the first 3 minutes of the final period and took the Lions to a victory that kept their flickering title hopes alive in the National Football League's Western Division.

Known as football's top re-lief pitcher, Morrall guided the Lions on payoff drives of 75 and 56 yards before a crowd of 53,012.

Back In Form

He hit fullback Nick Pietrosante with a 12-yard pass for the winning score with just 1 minute, 42 seconds left.

Unitas, showing his old-time passing magic, teamed with Raymond Berry and Jimmy Orr for touchdowns that shot the Colts into a 14-7 lead.

But Unitas just missed bringing the Colts back into a tie in the final 10 seconds when his end zone pass to Orr was batted away by Dick (Night Train) Lane.

Morrall clicked on 7 of 9 passes in the two comeback drives. He hit Gail Cogdill with a 50-yarder and Pat Studstill with a 21-yarder before scoring the touchdown that tied it 14-14 himself on a 1-yard sneak.

Joe Schmidt's interception of a Unitas pass started the Lions off on their winning drive. Morrall kept the drive going with an 18-yard toss to Cogdill before he hit Pietrosante, in the end zone.

Pietrosante, who wasn't expected to play with a bad knee, was standing all alone behind the Baltimore defense.

Until Morrall replaced Milt Plum and awakened the Lions' offense, Detroit drives had stalled at the Baltimore 14, 17 and 1.

The Detroit defense, so brilliant in the Thanksgiving victory over divisional leading Green Bay Packers, helped the Lions to their first score in the opening minutes.

Unitas, banged by a teammate on the game's first scrimmage play, fumbled and Carl Brettschneider recovered for Detroit at the Baltimore 21.

—PHILADELPHIA WINS, 37-14— Eagles' Aerial Attack Stuns Redskins' 2nd-Place Chances

Washington (P)—Pete Retzlaff, hobbled by injuries most of the season, spearheaded a Philadelphia aerial attack that demoralized Washington Sunday as the Eagles rode to a 37-14 victory.

He finished the game with 8 catches for 135 yards and one touchdown. He set up two other scores with clutch catches.

The defeat all but demolished Washington's chances for a second-place finish in the NFL's Eastern Division. The Redskins now have won 5, lost 5 and tied two. The Eagles won 3, lost 8 and tied one.

Fumbles in key situations cost the Redskins dearly and the alert Eagles intercepted two passes.

Washington completely dominated the game in the first quarter, scoring one touchdown on a 5-yard pass from Norman Snead to Steve Junker and moving to a 14-0 lead on Snead's 10-yard pass to Dick James on the first play of the second quarter.

Tim Brown started the Eagles on the comeback trail by sprinting 99 yards with the next kickoff for a touchdown.

A great kick by King Hill put the Redskins on their own 1 and Philadelphia was in business on the Washington 37 after Doug Elmore kicked out.

The Eagles tied the score in five plays, 3 of them passes to Retzlaff for 18, 2 and finally 12 yards for the score.

Philadelphia marched 77 yards after the second half kickoff to take the lead. A 16-yard Sonny Jurgensen-to-Retzlaff pass moved the ball to the 3 and Brown slipped over for the touchdown.

James fumbled after a Snead pass and Philadelphia took the ball on its 14 and the Eagles scored again on an 86-yard march.

Retzlaff snagged a 17-yard pass to put the ball on the 10. Tommy McDonald, usually a receiver, took a pitch-out and tossed a touchdown pass to Brown on the next play.

The Eagles tied the score in five plays, 3 of them passes to Retzlaff for 18, 2 and finally 12 yards for the score.

AAU Asks Congressional Investigation Of NCAA

Detroit (UPI)—The power struggle between the amateur Athletic Union and track coaches of the National Collegiate Athletic Association grew more violent Sunday when AAU president Louis J. Fisher asked for a Congressional investigation of the NCAA.

Fisher rapped the NCAA-sponsored U.S. Track and Field Federation at the AAU annual convention's final session Sunday.

"I believe it is the duty of the U.S. Congress to investigate the NCAA and its puppet federations from top to bottom," Fisher told convention delegates.

"Recent statements (by the Federation) would indicate that the few power-mad NCAA dictators are going to continue to make U.S. track and field athletes ineligible for international competition. I consider this action illegal, immoral and un-American."

The dispute over control of track and field in this country appeared near an end earlier this month in New York when Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy mediated sessions between the AAU and Federation officials. A coalition set-up, giving each group an equal voice, reportedly was agreed on.

But the Federation called the AAU's coalition plan ratified Sunday by the board of governors a "sham" which repudiated the agreement made at the Kennedy meetings.

The AAU also reaffirmed its stand on controlling open competition in track and field.

"This isn't what we agreed on and as far as we're concerned we're going our own way," said Federation spokesman Don Canham, track coach at the University of Michigan.

Chandler Kicks Four Field Goals

. . . TITTLE PASSES HELP

Chicago (P)—The New York Giants clinched their second straight Eastern Conference title of the National Football League Sunday by defeating the Chicago Bears 26-24 on two touchdown passes by Y. A. Tittle and 4 field goals by Don Chandler.

The first meeting between the clubs since New York punted the Bears 47-7 in the 1956 championship game was a rough, hard-played contest that kept an overflow Wrigley Field crowd of 49,043 alternating boos with cheers.

Several fist swinging incidents charged up the battle, but the only player ejected was the Bears' Ed O'Bradovich who started punching Phil King in the 3rd period. King was forced to the Giant bench to rest with an ice pack against his face.

O'Bradovich's flare-up cost the Bears a 15-yard penalty and set up Chandler's 37-yard field goal that pushed the Giants ahead 23-17. Chandler, who booted a 26-yard field goal in the first quarter and a 47-yarder early in the 3rd, added his 4th for 16 yards midway in the final period.

Kicks 14 Points

He also booted extra points after the two touchdowns to total 14 points with his kicking.

The triumph, assuring the Giants their 5th divisional crown in the last 7 years, was the 7th straight of the season. It gave them a 10-2 record with two games to play.

It headed them toward what is expected to be another NFL championship showdown with the Green Bay Packers, who blasted them 37-0 for the title last year.

After Chandler's field goal put New York in front 26-17 in the 4th, the Bears scored on a 59-yard drive capped by Bill Wade's 25-yard scoring pass to Angelo Coia. Roger Leclerc converted for the 3rd time. He also kicked a 31-yard field goal in the 3rd.

It was Wade's second touchdown pass. He hit Johnny Morris in the corner for a 30-yard tally in the first period to end a 66-yard push in 4 plays.

Other Score

The Bears other touchdown came earlier in the first on a 64-yard thrust in 5 plays. From the Giants 23, Ronnie Bull drilled goalward only to bobble the ball on the 3. It rolled into the end zone and Mike Ditka recovered for the touchdown.

The veteran Tittle hurled touchdown aials in the first and second quarters to boost his league leading total to 27.

He climaxed a 62-yard march with a 37-yard payoff pitch to Joe Walton who completely outran defender Richie Petitbon.

Then he finished a 79-yard drive in 6 plays with 3 successive passes to Del Shofner of 15, 30 and a final 24 yards.

Wade completed 21 passes to boost his season total to 192.

It broke the Bears' record of 176 set by Sid Luckman in 1947.

Michaels Sparks Steelers To Win

Pittsburgh (P)—Four field goals by record-breaking Lou Michaels and Willie Daniel's scintillating 49-yard run with an intercepted pass gave the surging Pittsburgh Steelers a 19-17 victory over St. Louis at Forbes Field Sunday.

The triumph was the 4th in the last 5 games for the Steelers and kept them in contention for a spot in the National Football League's Runner-Up Bowl at Miami, Fla., Jan. 6.

Michaels, who entered the game as the league's 4th best scorer, set a new Steeler scoring record by booting field goals of 35, 37, 23 and 10 yards, all in the second half, and kicking one extra point.

Team Record

That ran his total to 87 points for the season, 10 more than Bobby Layne's team record set in 1960.

KENNEDY FAN SAYS HE DID IT ON A DARE

Philadelphia (P)—"I did it on a dare," said Vincent Pelzer Sunday, when he was fined $10 for running onto the field to try to shake President Kennedy's hand during halftime at the Army-Navy game.

"One of my friends said to me 'I guess you can't shake the President's hand,'" Pelzer, 45, of Wyncoff, N.J., told Magistrate Luke McBride.

"With that I was on my way. They know I can't take a dare."

Pelzer got within several yards of the President Saturday before police halted him, as millions watched on television. Kennedy was walking between lines of cadets and midshipmen who formed a corridor across the field.

Pelzer paid the $10 fine plus $2.50 costs on charges of intoxication, breach of the peace and disorderly conduct.

Chargers End Loss Skein At 6

Halfback Jerry McDougall tallied two first period touchdowns on runs of 25 and 7 yards and rookie quarterback John Hall threw two scoring passes of 23 and 17 yards in the second half to give the Chargers the edge.

McDougall, a former UCLA star who was picked up two weeks ago by the Chargers from the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, gained 108 yards in 22 carries Sunday.

Dallas, Tex. (P)—Don Meredith faked and passed and Amos Marsh ran all over the place Sunday as the Dallas Cowboys ripped Cleveland 45-21, scoring the most points in one game in their National Football League competition.

It was a brawling game with Frank Clarke, ace Dallas pass-receiver taking punches at Bernie Parris, Cleveland defensive halfback against whom pass interference was called in the end zone. Players from both teams joined in the scuffle.

Meredith passed for two touchdowns and set up another with his throwing. His accuracy was almost perfect—he completed 10 of 11 for 147 yards.

Brodie Throws 4 Long TD Strikes To Lead 49er Win

Minneapolis-St. Paul (P)—San Francisco blended John Brodie's 4 long touchdown passes with alert opportunism against Minnesota's fumble-prone Vikings to chalk up a 35-12 National Football League victory Sunday.

The triumph evened the 49ers Western Conference record at 6-6 and kept the Vikings mired in the division depths with a 2-9-1 mark.

Brodie set the tone on San Francisco's 3rd play from scrimmage when he laid a perfect, long pass in the arms of Jim Johnson for a 46-yard scoring aerial.

He then fired 3 more touchdowns passes in the second half as the 49ers overcame a 10-7 Viking halftime lead. They went 20, 48 and 40 yards to Bernie Casey.

The last two scoring strikes came in the final quarter and cushioned the San Francisco lead from a shaky 14-12 margin after 3 periods.

Casey caught the last two passes and went in for touchdowns despite interference calls both times on Minnesota's Tom Franckhauser.

The 49ers tacked down a 5th score in the waning seconds when J. D. Smith rammed over from the 17 to cap an 80-yard drive in 10 plays.

Ortiz Rates Nod In Title Defense

Tokyo (P)—Carlos Ortiz, a 26-year-old Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, is a heavy favorite to make a successful first defense of his world lightweight boxing championship against Teruo Korka of Japan Monday night.

The 15-rounder, first world lightweight title match ever to be held in Japan, will be at the indoor 10,000-seat Kuramae Amphitheater built for Japanese Sumo matches.

A crowd of about 8,000 is expected, falling below capacity because of the general agreement among Japanese boxing writers and fight experts that the 5th-ranked Kosaka has little chance against the champ.

Ortiz, who has lost only 4 of 41 fights, won the title from veteran Joe Brown last April. He has scored 15 knockouts and never has been stopped. Kosaka has a 47-6-1 record with 17 knockouts.

NU MENTIONED WITH GOTHAM POSSIBILITIES

Miami (P)—The University of Miami can pick its opponent for the Gotham Bowl football game in New York Dec. 15.

"It's up to you — who do you want to play?" Bob Curran, executive director of the Gotham Bowl, told Athletic Director Jack Harding and coach Andy Gustafson Sunday.

"You name the team and I'll go after them," Curran added.

Gustafson expressed a choice of Navy, and Curran promised he'd try.

Prime candidate to oppose Miami appeared to be Boston College, which won 8 of 10 games, but the team that wants another shot at Miami is Texas Christian.

Miami edged TCU early in the season, 21-20.

Other teams reportedly under consideration are Nebraska, West Virginia and Duke.

Federal Funds Aid Mosquito Fight

... PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE GIVES IDEA PRELIMINARY STUDY

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

An engineering and cost study for long-range, permanent control of Lincoln's mosquito problem may receive federal financing as an environmental health research project.

City-County Health Director George R. Underwood said the U.S. Public Health Service (USPHS) is giving preliminary study to the project and has expressed interest in the idea.

Dr. Underwood said the suggested study was outlined to USPHS officials during the recent bi-regional Conference of Preventive Medicine and Community Health held at Norman, Okla.

Research Grant
"There's no federal money for a mosquito control study as such, but Lincoln has several unique situations that could make the study eligible for an environmental health research grant," Dr. Underwood said.

"Most federal research money is going for aging and chronic illness studies," he said. "However, initial federal interest has been expressed for the mosquito control study analysis and officials have agreed to study the idea."

Aside from USPHS interest, Dr. Underwood said a private foundation may also be interested in the suggested pilot study.

2 Breeding Areas
Lincoln has two major mosquito breeding areas in addition to others resulting from urban development and expansion.

In an October report, Lincoln health officials reported the 1962 mosquito population and other factors had reached a "potentially explosive situation" before cold weather quieted the problem.

The City Council and County Board agreed in a joint meeting that a planning and cost survey for a permanent mosquito control program was the next needed step.

Dr. Underwood said the salt-water marshes on the western edge of Lincoln are unique for an inland city. They are a particular problem because of one salt-water breeding mosquito that is a particularly notorious carrier of encephalitis.

Man-Made Area
The other major breeding area, also in the West O area and man-made, resulted from the straightening of the Salt Creek channel and abandonment of the old channel without corrective drainage work.

Dr. Underwood said the health-oriented study of this problem might show the cost difference between "fore-sighted engineering in channel improvement work as compared with the later cost of correcting a situation that now confronts the city."

"Much of the problem was caused by the Sanitary District (now dissolved) work on the Salt Creek channel," he said. "Waste banks on the new channel and abandonment of the old channel without filling or drainage created this major mosquito-breeding area."

District Cooperating
Dr. Underwood said the Salt-Wahoo Watershed District is cooperating in filling the worst places with excess dirt from planned Salt Creek channel improvements by the Corps of Engineers.

He said the engineering-cost study, probably requiring 3 years to make, would be a 100% federal grant if approved by the USPHS.

If the USPHS approves the proposed study after preliminary review, Dr. Underwood said a formal request and a detailed plan would then be submitted to the federal agency.

Lincoln's 1962 mosquito infestation was 4 times that of 1961, but probably did not equal the 1960 infestation, when the West O area was sprayed.

Area Elimination
Dr. Underwood said there is a good chance that the 1963 season may require spraying measures for short-term control, but the only permanent and positive action is the elimination of the mosquito-breeding areas.

"It will take both governmental and individual action," he added.

Dr. Underwood said other details of his discussions with USPHS officials during the Oklahoma meeting would be reported during the city-county health board meeting Tuesday night.

Canadian Among Speakers At Beautification Conference

A leader in a new concept in community planning in Canada will be a featured speaker at a Nebraska community beautification conference Monday and Tuesday at the Nebraska Center.

He is A. K. Gillmore, executive director of the Wascana Centre, a 1,300-acre development in the heart of the provincial capital.

Development of the complex is projected over a 100-year period, Gillmore noted, and is a joint venture of the Saskatchewan provincial government, the University of Saskatchewan and the City of Regina.

The Wascana Centre Authority, a private corporation, has complete control of development in the area, including landscaping.

"We are endeavoring to create an aesthetic gem," Gillmore said Sunday night in Lincoln.

He commented that his selection to speak at the local conference probably came because of similarities between Saskatchewan and Nebraska.

He will address the conference banquet Monday night and appear on the program again Tuesday morning.

Other conference speakers will include Davis S. Carson, director of community development for Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha; Dr. J. O. Young, chairman of the University of Nebraska's department of horticulture; A. James Ebel of Lincoln and Hal Schroeder, general manager of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed District.

Student's Condition Is Good After Coffee House Slashing

A University of Nebraska student was in good condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital Sunday after his nose was slashed severely by an unknown assailant at the Purple Piano coffee house, 1036 P.

Hospital officials said Gary M. Hesler, 18, of 6000 Franklin, required several stitches to close the cut, running from the top left side of his nose down through one nostril.

Police said Hesler told them he met his assailant, described as about 18, while sitting in the coffee house Saturday night, and after some conversation the youth asked him to go to the men's rest room.

When he did so, Hesler told police, the youth joined him, words were exchanged and a fight ensued in which Hesler was slashed with a knife.

Ordered Away
Police said a private detective, hired by the coffee house to maintain order, escorted both outside, sent Hesler to the hospital in a taxi, and ordered the other youth not to show up there again.

Police Sunday night still were seeking him. He was described as 5 feet, 7 inches tall, weighing 140-165 pounds, having long dark hair and wearing a black leather jacket.

The Purple Piano opened last week.

Directors of Lincoln Coffee Houses Inc., owners of the Purple Piano, issued a statement Sunday night in which they said they "were very sorry about the unfortunate incident" but that it was "the type of thing that could have happened in any number of places."

They said the establishment features nightly musical entertainment and drinks which are strictly non-alcoholic. It is owned, they said, by a group of young Lincoln men, mostly students.

They quoted Police Chief Joe Carroll as saying the operation is in "reputable hands and that he expects the Purple Piano to be a wholesome place for young people to go.

'Little Dog' Bites Rome Dogcatcher

Rome (P) — Rome police had a strange complaint Sunday: a man named Little Dog bit a dogcatcher for catching a dog.

It may take a while for police to work out all the details, but the first report on the books went this way:

Dogcatcher Carlo Ciardi netted a stray dog he saw wandering the street illegally without a muzzle. He and policeman Pietro Colicelli became involved in a violent argument with the supposed owner, a man they named as Francesco Canino (in Italian little dog). Blows were exchanged, and Ciardi went to a hospital for treatment of a bitten arm. He said the biter was Mr. Canino.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY: Diversified Funds More Reliable Than 'Long Shots'

By Merryle S. Rukeyser
A reader in Brooklyn, N.Y., a professional woman, single and without dependents, with an income of between $13,000 to $15,000, asks about "long shots" for savings.

She writes: "Real estate management does not appeal to me, but I am attracted by the real estate corporations. It seems also that there is a future in teaching machines and I would like to know what you think of them. Some friends of mine are investing in a shopping center, and I feel that this might be a good investment."

For a person without a balanced portfolio of investments, including good common stocks, it is more sensible to build up a diversified fund rather than to place reliance on "long shots." Charles B. Thornton, chairman of Litton Industries, Inc., a leading company in the electronics field, remarked to me that, though electronics as an industry has a brilliant future, he recognizes that there will be a shakeout of the weaker companies. Since he made that observation more than two years ago, such process of selection has already gotten under way. Mr. Thornton's ambition has been to build survival qualities into his company through research and development, diversification and acquisitions.

This incident is recalled by the inquiry in regard to teaching machines. As a former school board president, I am aware of these new mechanical and graphic aids for teaching. I think that we may be only at the beginning of this trend. But after this is conceded, the investor must investigate competitive products and the quality of management in specific projects. Likewise, each piece of real estate, including a shopping center, must be expertly evaluated. The big investor can engage engineers and security analysts to look into these technical matters. The small investor is usually better served by either buying shares of seasoned and diversified companies or by eliminating the investment management responsibility through acquisition of financial packages of convenience such as mutual funds, shares of closed end investment companies, or participation in Common Trust Funds of banks and trust companies.

Real estate has been through the national history an important outlet for savings. The lady says that she does not want the responsibility of managing real estate. However, if she should be fortunate enough to select a good piece of income producing real estate, she could engage a management firm to collect the rents and service the tenants for 5% of the gross annual income. As for real estate companies, each must be judged by its own record and portfolio. Such stocks have been merchandised on the theory that reserves for depreciation on the improvement constitutes what is tantamount to tax free income.

Two qualifications should be added. First, structures do gradually wear out and become obsolete. Secondly, with the passion at Washington for closing alleged tax loopholes, the rules of the game could be modified.

Q—A physician in Detroit, who has been buying E bond (redemption value) E bond monthly, is about to improve his situation, and increase his monthly savings to $300. He asks whether to buy more bonds, start a savings account in Detroit, or open a savings and loan account in California.

A—As a young married man with two children, you can begin to move from a lopsided financial plan to a balanced diet. One advantage of the E bond is that you can leave the interest to accumulate, but this can also be accomplished through savings accounts. I suggest you divide your $300 monthly investment equally between fixed dollar investments, including government bonds, savings bank accounts and savings and loan, on the one hand, and equities (common stock), on the other.

In the stock segment, you can proceed under the Monthly Investment Plan of the New York Stock Exchange, where you pay for stocks of your own choosing (with professional guidance), or acquire mutual funds and Common Trust Funds. The stock segment offers growth possibilities, and should help you to finance the rising cost of educating your children. Before you get on this permanent program, however, there are preliminaries. Your first obligation is to consult a competent life insurance underwriter to determine whether you are carrying adequate life insurance, hospitalization and major medical coverage.

Q—A professional man in the Buffalo, N.Y., area wants a management consultant to advise him on business matters.

A—Most of the reputable management consulting firms are set up to advise substantial companies, not individuals. If your problems are not too complex, you can get help from a local knowledgeable certified public accountant. If there are gaps in his know-how, you can supplement him by consulting your commercial banker or trust officer, your attorney, or the Buffalo office of the Internal Revenue Service. In addition, the security analyst at a reputable stock exchange firm can perhaps be helpful.

Q—In paying 5 1/2% interest on a collateral bank loan, secured by AT&T stock, am I being overcharged? Since under my setup, I don't need additional life insurance coverage for 7 years, wouldn't I be foolish to pay interest on borrowed funds for premiums?

A—Your interest rate is not out of line for a small loan. Certainly you have no obligation to incur the cost of insurance to cover the cost of insurance you don't need for the next 7 years. On the other hand, if you wait, you are taking a chance that your health 7 years hence will still make you insurable. This is a lesser risk than in the past, however, since most life companies now are inclined to write policies at a premium rate on substandard risks. If you are unwilling to take this chance, an alternative is to buy convertible and renewable term insurance, which is coverage at the minimum rate.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 1000, Lincoln, Neb. 68502. No return will be made in the column.)

Mikoyan Returns Home To Moscow From Cuba Talks

Moscow (P) — First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan returned to snow-blanketed Moscow Sunday from his mission to Cuba and conferences in Washington.

He was met at the airport by the Kremlin's other first deputy premier, Alexei Kosygin.

The party newspaper Pravda said Mikoyan's conferences in Washington "contributed to the consolidation of mutual understanding between the two states." Mikoyan was sent to Cuba after the Soviet Union agreed to withdraw missiles from that Caribbean island if the United States would lift its naval blockade. "American journalists, who usually echo the views of local official quarters, not unanimously that the talk between (President John Kennedy and Anastas Mikoyan) proceeded in a businesslike, frank and easy atmosphere," Pravda said in a dispatch from Washington.

VA Announces GI Policy Dividends

More than $2,573,000 in 1963 GI Insurance dividends—including a special dividend—will go to 41,542 World War II veterans holding National Service Life Insurance policies in Nebraska. A. H. Duxbury, VA Regional Office Manager in Lincoln said.

Plans for the accelerated payment of both regular and special 1963 dividends were announced by the White House on Nov. 22. Both dividends will be included in one check, which VA estimates will average about $61.00 for each policyholder.

The regular dividends, which are distributed annually, have generally been paid on the anniversary dates of the policy. Duxbury explained. But on this occasion, the payments will be speeded up to be completed during January 1963.

The dividends are primarily a return to the policyholders of part of the premiums they have paid, since the death rate of World War II veterans continues to be lower than the rate upon which the payments were established.

—YULETIDE PRESENT—

Pressure For A-Ban Building

Geneva (AP) — Neutral diplomatic sources said Sunday pressure is building up on the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to halt nuclear weapon tests by Jan. 1 as a yuletide present to the world.

Leading this drive are non-atomic countries in the 17-nation disarmament conference.

Their delegates self-confidently claim to voice world desires clearly expressed by the U.N. General Assembly.

Difficulties

All 3 of the nuclear powers are experiencing difficulties in meeting the general thrust of these arguments. If anything, the Russians seem even more embarrassed than the Americans and British.

The drive to stop testing takes various forms.

Sweden and Canada suggested a moratorium on underground blasts to give an international commission of scientists time to devise a system for policing a permanent test ban.

India called for a voluntary system of on-site inspections of suspicious earth shocks. This proposal rests on the assumption that, in the last analysis, the nuclear powers will have to act in good faith with each other if they are to keep a nuclear test ban treaty alive.

Meaningless

After 4 years of wrangling, the test suspension negotiations have developed a jargon almost meaningless in some cases to the delegates themselves.

In this atmosphere, informants said, Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada performed an important function by defining in simple terms the exact problem before the conference.

Burns said the basic difference between the Soviet and the U.S.-British viewpoints comes down to this single issue:

What type and quantity of on-site inspection will be required to deter a power from secretly setting off underground tests?

Policed Easily

Nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, under water and in space can be policed relatively easily. The underground problem has proved the stumbling block. Seismic instrument readings alone still cannot determine in all cases the difference between an earthquake and a nuclear blast.

The United States and Britain demand treaty-backed inspection system, international in scope and not subject to distortion by the nation under inspection.

Would they get that under the Indian plan? The two Western powers have their doubts.

Britain and the United States are happy, however, that India, a leading neutralist nation, at last recognizes a need for on-site inspections.

Sampling

Under the Indian idea an international commission of scientists would call for such inspections on a sampling technique. Not all suspicious earth tremors would be checked, but a certain quota would.

This checking up could be carried out only if the country suspected of sneaking secret tests agreed to invite international inspectors onto its soil. A country which failed to invite such an inspection would carry the onus of causing the treaty to break down.

The lack of compulsion in this arrangement startles the Americans and British.

Workers Protest

Valletta, Malta (UPI) — Three thousand workers marched silently through the main street protesting the British government's cutdown of the naval establishment on the island and the resulting unemployment.

As she started to make a telephone call, she said the intruder told her, "put the phone down. Take your clothes off. I want to take some pictures."

The man tore off her pajamas and housecoat, and forced her to turn one way and then another at his commands. There were clicking noises, she said, but she concluded that no pictures were taken since she could not feel the heat normally accompanying flashbulbs.

The young woman, whose identity was withheld by police, told her tormentor that her boyfriend probably would come to the apartment if she did not call.

She was permitted to make the call and her friend sensed that something was wrong.

"Yes, yes," she blurted, hung up.

The intruder then struck her on the head, knocking her unconscious, and fled.

The friend went to the apartment and found the girl lying unconscious on a bed.

He, too, is blind, police reported.

Latins Want U.S. To Pay Big Share

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Informed sources said Sunday some Latin American countries will try to have the United States keep on paying an abnormal share of the costs of U.N. peacekeeping operations.

With 9 other countries, the United States is sponsoring a resolution that would have the 110-nation assembly accept this position. This would lump the Congo and Middle-East peacekeeping operations.

budgetary committee will start debate Monday on the world court's July 20 advisory opinion that all U.N. The general assembly's members are obliged to help pay the expenses of the United Nations' Congo and Middle-East peacekeeping operations.

Weighty Problem For Ma

Boston (AP)—Edith Dowling is only 6 months old but she's a weighty problem for her mother.

Edith got a lot of weight at one time — 45 pounds of plaster cast to correct a congenital hip bone trouble.

Her mother, Mrs. Chester Dowling, said Sunday Edith was too heavy to carry or transport in a regulation-size carriage or stroller.

Through the Boston Record-American, Mrs. Dowling appealed for the loan of a twin carriage.

With the request went an appealing picture of Edith standing with her feet spraddled far apart, rigid in the big cast. Her sister Denise, 4½, helped Edith stand for the picture.

Within two hours, Mrs. Dowling said Sunday night, a Quincy woman offered a twin carriage "and we've had dozens of other phone calls."

She said she was going to accept the Quincy offer.

"Edith is such a sweet, sociable little girl and it seemed a shame that she had to lay in a crib all the time," Mrs. Dowling said.

China Offers Syria Aid

Damascus, Syria, (AP)—Communist China offered financial and economic aid to help develop Syria's economy. Prime Minister Khaled El Azem announced the offer after a meeting with the Communist Chinese ambassador here.

Noting the friendly relations between the two countries, he said, "China is ready to help Syria in its economic development."

He said the offer included a loan of $10 million and technical assistance in various fields.

The offer was made during a visit to Syria by the Chinese ambassador, who said he was pleased with the results of the meeting.

He said the offer was a sign of China's interest in the Middle East and its desire to promote peace and stability in the region.

The offer was also seen as a challenge to the United States, which has been providing aid to Syria.

China's offer comes at a time when Syria is seeking to diversify its economy and reduce its dependence on foreign aid.

The offer was also seen as a sign of China's growing influence in the Middle East.

Nebraska's Legionnaire Meet Ends

Grand Island (AP) — More than 400 Nebraska American Legion and auxiliary members wound up the 30th annual two-day conference in Grand Island Sunday afternoon.

The statewide Department of Nebraska convention was a set for North Platte July 26-28.

Department Commanders said that more than one third of the 367 Nebraska Legion posts were represented at the Grand Island meeting. He noted that Legion membership in the state is now nearly 32,000 and predicted membership would be around 55,000 by next summer.

Galbraith said that the majority of the conference involved reports by various Legion committees.

The delegates told State Institutions Director George Morris the Legion is backing the improvement of the Beatrice State Home and the Soldiers' and Sailors' home in Grand Island.

The delegates also endorsed a cooperative effort between Governor Frank Morrison's youth conference and the Legion's youth activities program.

Among those attending the conference were Edward T. Foster of Omaha, national executive committee member from Nebraska; Governor Morrison's administrative assistant Norman, Otto; national vice commander of the Mid West Division Claude Hamilton of Sioux Falls, S.D.; and national rehabilitation representative James G. Stroud of St. Paul, Minn.

Keynote speaker at the final Sunday session was Joe L. Mathews, Fort Worth, Tex., a candidate for national commander for 1963-1964.

The meeting, normally held in February, was switched to this fall in an effort to avoid winter weather. Galbraith said the attendance was a record for this meeting.

WISHING WELL

By William J. Miller

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
